METHYLATED ALCOHOL SCORES ANOTHER DEATH

THOMAS NIAU MITCHELL TOOK POISON AS A BEVERAGE AND DIED.

Coroner's Jury Makes a Strong Recommendation To Board of Health In Reference to the Sale of This Liquid.

That said Thomas Niau Mitchell came to his death . . . from drinking methylated spirits or wood alcohol in quantity causing acute poisoning and heart failure.

The jury in this case desire further to call the attention of the Board of Health the advisability of requiring those dealing in methylated spirits to label the same as a deadly poison, in all respects conform to the law regarding deadly poisons. See Chapter 88, Penal Laws, 1897.

This is the verdict yesterday rendered by the coroner's jury sitting on the consideration of the death of the late Thomas Niau Mitchell, who died at the Queen's hospital on Tuesday evening. The verdict is a terse and perfect synopsis of the facts developed by the jury, and the recommendation expressed the unanimous sentiment of the jurors, the High Sheriff and probably does so for all right-thinking residents of the city.

High Sheriff Brown sat as coroner and personally conducted the examination. George A. Bower, S. Kube, Fred Smith, C. L. Dickerson, C. Tolin and J. W. McKeague were the jurors.
A large number of witnesses were examined. Dr. C. B. Cooper, one of the physicians to the Queen's hospital, who attended Mitchell in his last hours, was the most important of all.
He saw the patient first about as soon as he was brought to the hospital. He seemed to have much pain in stomach and bowels; the pupils of the eyes were widely dilated and not responsive to light, saying he couldn't see that he was blind; he told the doctor that he had taken some methylated spirits used in polishing calabashes in a pint of soda; thought he had taken about half a glass. Dr. Cooper described the rapidity with which the disease progressed. In response to a query by the High Sheriff the doctor said that he believed Mitchell died from poison, that methylated alcohol was a poison, a deadly poison if taken in quantity. He said no postmor-tem had been held, because it was not considered necessary, no doubt pre-sailing as to the cause of the man's death. When asked for suggestions to the jury the doctor smilingly suggested that they do all in their power to induce the Board of Health to prevent the free and indiscriminate sale of wood alcohol or methylated spirits.
Dr. Cooper drew the distinction between the various spirits known as alcohol, wood alcohol and methylated spirits. He said:

Methylated spirits consists of 90 parts of grain alcohol and 10 parts of wood alcohol mixed. In response to a query by the High Sheriff the doctor
death. When asked for suggestions
to induce the Board of Health to pre-
of wood alcohol or methylated spirits.

The jury was not long in arriving at the verdict given above.

Factories as Educators.
Cotton mills in the South are said to attract illiterate whites from the country who have never had the opportunity of amounting to much, and to make new men of them. As a result the next generation of the South will be a vast improvement over those who have preceded them.—Temple

A LIVE WORMS' NEST

that my rule was correct. The fact remains, however, that he permitted his clerk to review and criticize the rule in question behind my back upon a partial and incomplete statement of the facts.

Whoever heard of a clerk of a court seriously claiming the right to "temporarily divert trust funds until the claim was made by Smith. In what other American community would such conduct be tolerated, either by the courts or by the community?

The truth is that not only have the trust funds of this court been used by the clerk in the past to carry on the operating expenses of the courts in the other circuits, but the Judges here in Honolulu have "between pay days" drawn from the office cash, leaving their due bills in place of the cash so withdrawn. This was of course very convenient and very improper. My rule prevents the "temporary diversion" of trust funds in the hands of the clerk for any purpose.

I am pleased to note that upon what seems to be, second thought, my rule commends itself to the approval of the Chief Justice, but whether it does or does not I shall go along just the same; neither the Chief Justice nor the Chief Clerk of the Judiciary Department will be permitted to run the Circuit Court of the First Circuit as long as I am its Presiding Judge. While believing in becoming respect to the decisions of the Supreme Court at all times, the extra judicial opinions of its various members will have no terror for me. That is the only proper and self respecting view to take.

Trusting that you now fully understand my position, I remain, Yours faithfully,
A. S. HUMPHREYS,
First Judge.

Judge Frear's Interview.
In response to a request from the Star Judge Frear of the Supreme Court wrote out the following interview: "There is really no occasion for saying anything.
Judge Humphreys seemed to have sought an excuse for erecting men of straw to knock down, and appears to have been even anxious to go out of his way to sling mud at others, apparently for purposes of self-advertising. He appears to be offended at a portion of Mr.
Smith's letter to Mr. Porter, which no one took as reflecting on him. Judge Humphreys spoke to me yesterday of this matter and I told him in substance that I had approved Mr. Smith's conduct in declining to send funds to the other circuits and also that I had told Mr.
Smith at the time he wrote to Mr. Porter that Judge Humphreys' order was all right and cut no figure in the matter and that the course proposed should be taken as a matter of correct practice independently of that order. I also wrote to Judge Little to that effect and Judge Humphreys said he had read my letter to Judge Little and thanked me for putting the matter as I had in that letter. To my surprise, though entirely in line with his past, Judge Humphreys came out in this morning's paper and I understand intends further to come out in the papers with an effusion of self-virtue and mud-slinging at others.
He is seizing the occasion of certain correspondence between the clerks of two courts with which he has nothing to do as an occasion for publishing a lot of yellow matter of his own concoction to the community, merely because a small portion of that letter appeared to his mind to reflect on him though no one ever intended that it should reflect on him. As for my connection with his order, I have never questioned its correctness or propriety to anyone or paid any attention to it and do not see that it should give Judge Humphreys so much trouble. As to my approving his order now on second thought as he insinuates he knew that I had approved it in my conversation with Mr. Smith two weeks ago, and in my letter to Judge Little which I wrote and which Humphreys read before he made the statement that I now approved on second thought or after he had heard from Judge Little."

Refused to Talk.
Judge Humphreys was seen last night, and when approached in regard to Chief Justice Frear's self-written interview published in last evening's Star declined to be interviewed thereon, saying that it had been his policy since taking the bench to place all official correspondence in the files of the court, and that he had pursued the same course in this instance in regard to the letters to and from Judge Little.
That his letters to Judge Little were in reply to a letter—purely official—from Judge Little, and were in the line of official duty as he saw it and understood it; that he had no explanation, qualification or modification to make of any statement, matter or thing contained in his letters to Judge Little, that he desired no newspaper controversy and would not discuss the matter.
